MR. Kemp,

As we discussed over the phone, I reviewed our practice with regard to the spent paint filters mentioned. As your information showed, we had conducted a test to determine that the filters did not need to be classified as hazardous waste. We could continue to dispose of the filters with our normal trash.

I have no knowledge of any difficulties occurring during the past year that I have worked for the company nor during the past several years, according to our paint supervisor, utilizing our current method of disposal.

Therefore, based upon process knowledge utilizing our current method of disposal, we have no difficulties with ignitability regarding the spent paint filters.
